MR. BAYARD'S SPECH.

Upon reassembling, Mr. Bayard (Dem., Del.) said he might, perhaps, be content, as a friend of this measure, to allow it to go before the Senate and country unaccompanied by any remarks of his, had it not been the pleasure of the Senate to assign him, as one of the minority in this chamber, to a place upon the select committee to frame a bill to meet exigencies of the hour. Each party claimed success for its candidate, and insisted that he should be declared President by the two Houses of Congress. The canvass was bitter; but the time for judgment had almost come. It could not be disguised that it had been sought to raise an issue between the settlement of this great question by sheer force and arbitrary power, and by the penceful way of haw and reason. This was a government of law, and not of force, and it must not pass near to five the great question of determining who has been elected President and Vice-President of the United States out of broils and tumults, and leave it in the higher atmosphere of judicial decision. He argued that Congress had the power to regulate by law the count of the electoral vote. This new-familied deal that the President of the Senate had the print to count the electoral vote had only lately been discovered. Mr. Bayard that the President of the Senate had the power to regulate by haw the count of the constitutions of the framers of our Constitution, and denied that the President of the Senate had the power to regulate by have the count to electoral vote. If the framers of the Constitutions of the framers of our Constitution, and denied that the President of the Senate had the power to regulate by haw the count to show the intention of the framers of our Constitution, and denied that the President of the Senate had the power to each of the Constitution of the framers of our Constitution, and denied that the President of the Senate did not summon the two Houses of the Con MB. They laid the facts before the Grand Jury, an indictment was found against Phillips. Jury, an indictment was found against Phillips, and he was brought to New York upon a requisition from Gov. Tilden. He gave bain 15,000, and has not as yet been tried.

When he returned to Pittsburgh, Phillips at once went before the Grand Jury there and had L. M. Bates & Co. indicted for inveighing him to New York and having him surreptitiously and maliciously arrested. Gov. Hartrant granted a requisition on Gov. Robinson for the entire house of L. M. Bates & Company, for conspiring to bring Phillips to New York.

On Tuesday afternoon Gov. Robinson heard the arguments for and against the extradition of the importers. Their counsel contended that they could not be rendered to the State of Pennsylvania, incomuch as they had not fled from that State; besides it was no crime to bring an alleged criminal into a State to answer for lleged criminal into a State to answer for

THE BULGARIAN OUTRAGES. The Purport of the Official Documents Re-

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.-The President, in response to a resolution of the Senate, has transmitted to that body the official documents received at the Department of State from Minister Maynard concerning the revolt in Bulgaria, including the report on the subject by Eugene Schuyler, the Secretary of Legation and Consul-General at Constantinople, who says that the burning of villages and the murders and atrocities committed were clearly unnecessary for the suppression of the insurrection, for it was an insignificant rebellion at the best, and the villagers generally surrendered at the first summons; nor could they be justified by the state of panic, because that was over before the troops set out on their campaign. It has been claimed that the massacres and outrages in Bulgaria were not ordered by the Porte, and that it even had no knowledge of them. However that may be, it is certain that nearly all those who particularly distinguished themselves for their cruelty and barbarity were rewarded, decorated or promoted by the Porte, or have since held high positions in the army. On the contrary an attempt has been made to punish some of those who did their best to act in a legal manner and to spare innocent men.
